

I do not want the federal government to weaken Wisconsin's statutes and rules related to the no-call list. Wisconsin's existing program has worked very well since its inception in 2003. Granting exceptions to the banking industry or any other business opens the door for other similar exceptions. This would defeat the purpose of and decrease the effectiveness of a no-call list.